Billious Children

Black-Draught, Long in Successful Use, Praised by an Arkansas Mother, "Soon Does Its Work."

Marmaduke, Ark.—Speaking of Theodore's Black-Draught, which from long use in her household has become regarded as "the family medicine," Mrs. Mary E. Hill, of Route 1, this place, says:

"When the children get billious, I give them a couple of good doses, and when we have sour stomach, headache, or any liver or stomach trouble, we use Black-Draught. It is an easy laxative, and soon does the work. I certainly think it is one of the best remedies made."

Black-Draught acts on the faded liver, gently, but positively, and helps it in its important function of throwing out waste materials and poisons from the system.

In thousands of households Black-Draught is kept handy for immediate use in time of need. Prompt treatment often is half the battle, and will often prevent slight ills from developing into serious troubles.

Its well-established merit, during more than 70 years of successful use, should convince you of the helpful effects obtainable by taking Black-Draught for liver and stomach disorders. Get a package today, and keep it in your house. See that the package bears the words, "Theodore's Black-Draught." No. 141

Royal Poinclana of Treplos. The Royal Poinclana is the most striking of Hawaii's ornamental trees. Its smooth, spreading branches, when not clad with horizontal layers of dainty foliage, are one mass of flaming blossoms that may be plainly seen from considerable distances. Viewed from an elevation, this outburst of vivid colors resembles a sun-flecked, crimson pool resting in a field of green. The flowers are generally succeeded by great, dangling pods, from one to three feet in length, by one or more inches in diameter. Different varieties of the Poinclana are fairly well distributed throughout the tropics. It is sometimes called the "pencil flower" on account of its showy blossoms, but Hawaiians consider the "flame tree" a better descriptive title. The Poinclana was named in honor of Mr. de Poinet, governor general of the French West Indies, who wrote the natural history of that country in the Seventeenth century, the Detroit News observes.

Floors for Real Service

Thump! Crash! Bang!—Isn't that the way children generally play? Yes, it's hard on floors, but here's a floor finish to withstand even that hard usage. It's HANNA'S LUSTRO-FINISH This superior finish keeps the floor looking bright and lustrous all the while. Hard knocks can dent, but they never break it. It's elastic and durable and so sticks to its job through every test. You can apply it yourself.

Lustro-Finish is also fine for furniture and wood work.
